Physician Preconference Course: Comprehensive Nutritional Therapy – Tactical Approaches in 2025

This course is designed to stimulate the interest of nutrition in young physicians and demonstrate its importance to patient outcomes. Each session will start with a case presentation and end with a discussion of the case by the expert speakers followed by an interactive Question and Answer session.

Course Practice Gap and Goal Target Audience:

The inadequacy of medical nutrition education has been studied for at least the last two decades. Despite numerous efforts to improve nutrition education for physicians, most graduating medical students continue to rate their nutrition preparation as inadequate. This course will attempt to address this gap in nutrition education in medical training.

Target Audience:

Medical students, residents, fellows, and practicing physicians who are not currently nutrition experts. The course is open to other medical professionals, such as dietitians, pharmacists, and nurses.

This program is designed at the intermediate learning level.

Successful Completion: ASPEN provides continuing education credit to physicians who attend in full each session claimed for credit and complete the program evaluation in ASPEN's eLearning center.
